

A logo for each use

Behind-the-boat fun for families and groups, brought to you.

Use the detailed logo when there is room for the whole story. Use the simplified logo when clarity at a smaller size matters.

Detailed logo

Suggested main logo

Simple logo

Shirts, website header, small print

Wave icon

Tiny digital spaces beside the brand name

Two supplied alternatives

Keep these available. Dave confirms the main detailed version.

Keep it consistent

- Keep the original artwork intact. Use one main detailed version consistently.
- Leave empty space of about one-tenth of the mark's width on every side.
- Start at 160 pixels wide for the detailed logo and 220 for the simple logo. Keep WATERSPORTS readable.
- Use the wave icon only where SWAT is identified nearby. It is not the full business name.

Original logos: 480 x 480 PNGs. Simplified marks: PNG design candidates. Larger print needs suitable production artwork; no vector or stitch files are included.

Made simpler for shirts

For a collared boating shirt, use the simple logo in one thread color on the wearer's left chest. Navy suits a light shirt; white suits a navy shirt.

Navy mark / light shirt

White-on-navy reference

Placement sketch only. Actual position depends on pockets, seams, and the shirt.

Tell the shirt vendor

- Start around 4 inches wide; let the vendor confirm the fit and readable letter size.
- Send the simple-logo PNG and request one-color embroidery. The navy file has a transparent background; the white reference has a navy background.
- Ask the vendor to make the machine stitch file and a sample on the actual shirt before a full order.

Why the simpler mark matters

The artwork is not a machine stitch file. Tiny text, fine lines, and sunset shading are the reason to use the simpler mark.

Simple logo: small signs, invoices, and merchandise. Detailed logo: larger website features, flyers, and full-color displays.

Fewer colors. Clearer roles.

Four everyday colors, with clear jobs. The sunset's yellow and the lettering's silver stay in the illustration; they do not need to become website colors.

A small highlight when needed

- Let navy and white lead. Add blue for useful emphasis; keep orange occasional.
- Use navy text on white or blue, and white text on navy. Avoid white body text on bright blue or orange.
- Keep the supplied logo's original colors. Printed ink and thread are matched by the vendor.

Type with some energy

Barlow Condensed | Bold 700; short, strong headings

FUN BEHIND THE BOAT.

Inter | Regular 400; Semibold 600 for buttons

Bring family and friends together for a day on the water.

Website starting sizes: headings 40-56 pixels; body 16-18 pixels. Keep paragraphs short. Use Arial or sans-serif if the brand fonts are unavailable. Do not retype the logo.

Sound like a day on the water

Friendly, energetic, and welcoming. Say what the experience is, who it is for, and how to ask about an outing.

WEBSITE STYLE EXAMPLE

FUN BEHIND THE BOAT. BROUGHT TO YOU.

Mobile watersports experiences for families, friends, and groups.

Ask about a group outing

The message

- The experience Show the fun of activities behind the towing boat.
- The people Help families, friends, and groups picture a day together.
- The convenience Explain SWAT coming to the group, with locations confirmed by Dave.

Photography

Use Dave-approved pictures of the actual boat, activities, and people enjoying time together. Keep them natural and uncluttered.

Publish confirmed activities, service areas, prices, and contact details. Avoid claims such as "safest" or "best" without support.

Ready-to-use files

Logo PNGs, Barlow Condensed and Inter font files with licenses, website color/type styles, and an editable guide for Erinn.
